

Recreational Cycle Ride to Pub

Relaxing cycle ride (6.8km/4.2 miles, cycling confidence level easy, no hills, Thames Path is surfaced all the way but does not have street lighting)

After a long day, enjoy a relaxing leisurely cycle ride along the Thames Path to the Kings Arms Pub by Sandford Lock. After cycling up High Street and down St Aldates, cross the narrow Folly Bridge and turn left at the Toucan crossing [B]. You join the Thames Path which goes alongside the River Thames. You pass under Donnington Bridge Road [C], past Iffley Lock, and under the Southern Bypass [D]. After you go under the railway bridge [E], bear right to follow the Sustrans cycle path which leaves from the river. The path follows the railway line till Sandford Lane [F], turn left and follow the narrow winding lane back to the river. Cross over the river bridge and push you bike across Sandford Lock [G] to Kings Arms pub (<https://www.chefandbrewer.com/pubs/oxfordshire/kings-arms/>). You can sit outside by the river and enjoy cooked meals. If you want a change, you can return via the Quickways route along Iffley Road (OXR17) or via the Quietways route through the Low Traffic Neighbourhoods (OXR16).
